Secret Police Chief Believes
Field And Wife
Are Now Dead

Washington, Sept. 29.

Josef Swiatlo, former secret police leader in Poland, said today he believed Noel and Herta Field, two Americans long missing behind the Iron Curtain, were dead.

Mr. Field, a former State Department employee, and his wife were held by Hungarian authorities in 1949, Mr. Swiatlo has told American officials. He said he interviewed them in that year.

Swiatlo said through an intermediary today that when he returned to Hungary a year or so later and again asked to be allowed to interview the Fields the request was refused.

The whole tone of the conversation he had with the Hungarian authorities "led to the belief that Noel and Herta Field were dead," he said.

Mr. Hermann Field, a third member of the family involved in a series of disappearances in 1949, was held in prison in Poland as recently as about ten months ago, Swiatlo said he had no reason to doubt that Hermann is still alive.

Swiatlo, who had been under security guard since he fled to the West in Berlin last December, was brought into the open yesterday.

At the same time, the Government disclosed his story of the fate of the Fields—a mystery for five years.

The State Department announced that notes had been sent to Hungary demanding the release of Noel and Herta and to Poland demanding the release of Hermann. A Department spokesman, Mr. Lincoln White, said it was assumed by the State Department that all three were still alive and in prison.

The Fields were seized by secret police according to Swiatlo, who said he personally arrested Hermann because Hungarian authorities believed them to be involved in some sort of espionage or conspiracy against the Communist Government.

CLOSER TO FREEDOM State Department officials said that if still alive, the Fields were probably closer to freedom today than they had been since they were captured.

The Department's experience had been that when Communist Governments were furnished with proof that the United States knew what it was talking about in asking for the release of someone, denials ended and the case would be discussed.—Reuter.

Australian Troops Ready For Jungle Warfare

Kuala Lumpur, Sept. 29.

Australian troops will be ready for a jungle war when and where they may have to fight in future.

The man who made this statement and who is seeing to it that Australian soldiers get the latest jungle war technique is Colonel M. F. Brogan, Australian Director of military training who is now observing anti-terrorist operations in Malaya.

Colonel Brogan said that the Australian Army would soon adopt Malaya-type jungle kit among its equipment and Australian soldiers would also be trained in jungle warfare tactics developed in Malaya "since there is no telling when and where we may have to fight in future."

Colonel Brogan said that the type of operations now being employed in Malaya was much the same as those used in New Guinea during the war "but we may have to revise our training which is now based largely on British Army methods at home."

TREE-JUMPING

Colonel Brogan showed keen interest in the use of helicopters and paratroops in deep jungle, the tree-jumping technique developed jointly by the Royal Air Force and the Special Air Service (Paratroop Regiment) and types of weapons and communication gear suitable for the humid depths of Malaya's swarming jungle.

During his brief visit Colonel Brogan also conferred with the Director of Operations, General G. K. Bourne, and will continue his talks with Service chiefs in Singapore before he leaves for Australia.

Colonel Brogan is the second Australian officer to visit Malaya this season. Earlier, Lieut. Colonel Warde of the Royal Australian Infantry had been studying jungle training methods for two months.

Besides bringing Malayan jungle warfare techniques back to Australia, Colonel Brogan said Australia would continue to send her Army "students" to the Far East Land Forces School at Kota Tinggi in Johore State.—United Press.

Anglo-Japanese
Talks May End Today

London, Sept. 29.

The three-week-old Anglo-Japanese sterling payments talks here are expected to conclude tomorrow, an authoritative source said today.

British and Japanese officials have since September 7 been making a statistical review of their governments' sterling payment under the one-year agreement of January 29, 1954.

The source said that Britain and Japan were expected to prolong the agreement by another three months.

The officials have examined prospects of Japan's trade with the sterling area, of which Britain is the banker, during the last quarter of this year.

Mr. Takao Oda, new Minister in London, is leading the Japanese delegation to the talks with the British Treasury Board of Trade and the Bank of England officials.—Reuter.

U.S. Aid For
Honduras
Flood Victims

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Sept. 29.

U.S. naval craft, helicopters, small boats, life rafts and medical equipment were being rushed to the flood-stricken Central American Republic today in response to urgent appeals for emergency aid.

Heavy rains in the interior threatened the northern coastal areas with new disaster in the wake of floods which already have reached record proportions and have claimed at least two lives, probably many more.

The floods were caused by a severe tropical storm.

EMBASSY APPEAL

American aid was being rushed here from U.S. bases at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba and the Panama Canal Zone in response to an appeal from the American Embassy at Tegucigalpa.

Hardest hit of the many towns and villages in the path of the floods were La Lima and San Pedro Sula. The storm also hit neighbouring British Honduras, where 40-mph winds drove the 80-ton fishing vessel Polo C ashore and wrecked it on the rocks of Belize Harbour.

Appeals were made this afternoon for water purification units as a precaution against epidemics in areas where water systems have been swamped by the floods.

Two Army helicopters and an Air Force C-54 were among the equipment en route here from Panama.—United Press.

Nato Strength
Increasing

New York, Sept. 29. General Alfred M. Gruenther, North Atlantic Treaty Organization Commander, said today that NATO's strength was increasing but that "the integration of Germany into NATO would be helpful."

General Gruenther flew here from Paris for a brief visit to the United States. He will address the National Security Industrial Association tonight in New York and will fly to St. Paul, Minnesota, on Friday to receive an honorary degree at the College of St. Thomas.

General Gruenther said NATO's progress in the past year has been "marked." He said the United States was "pleased" to see the progress of NATO's efforts to bring about a "better" world.

EGYPTIAN EXPLAINS

London, Sept. 29.

The Egyptian Ambassador in London, Abdul Halek, called on British Under-Secretary for State, Mr. Arthur Dods-Parker, this afternoon to explain the Egyptian action in seizing the Israeli freighter Bat Galim, well-informed Egyptian sources said.

These sources said that the visit which lasted an hour, was aimed at calling the attention of the British Government to what was described as "Israeli provocation."

These same sources also said that the Egyptian Ambassador had called on Mr. Dods-Parker to inform him that the Egyptian Government also had instructed its U.N. delegation to bring the subject before the Security Council and the General Assembly.—France-Press.

RENEW PLEDGE

U.S. Commitments For The Defence Of European Continent

London, Sept. 29.

Mr Dulles, United States Secretary of State, told the nine-power conference he was hopeful that the results of the present meeting would make possible a renewal of the American pledge regarding commitments in Europe.

(The United States had previously agreed to certain commitments if the European Defence Community treaty was ratified).

He said he greatly hoped the new organisation now being studied would enable him to recommend to President Eisenhower how far he could commit the American Government.

Mr Dulles reminded the Ministers that under the American constitution, the President had sole discretion on the use of American troops and that no president could bind his successor.

Mr Dulles told the Ministers that American policy was "to respond to the political climate of Europe."

If Europe was moving in the direction of unity, the tendency of the American Government was to do more for Europe than if Europe were not moving in this direction.

"In all frankness, it would not be possible today for the United States Government to renew the commitment made last spring with regard to the EDC," Mr Dulles said.

Mr Dulles concluded that for this reason he hoped sincerely that the cause of European unification would be advanced at the present conference.

UNDERSTOOD

The only Minister to comment on Mr Dulles' statement at the conference was the British Foreign Secretary, Mr Eden, who said he fully understood the American attitude and he was sure his colleagues did so too.

Mr Dulles, referring to the United States declaration on EDC last spring, said:

"The declaration which we felt able to make in support of the European Defence Community was on the assumption that there was a permanent act which would tie together organically the countries of Europe which in the past have been separate and among whom war has been bred."

"We felt that it tied them together so permanently, so organically that we could regard that old chapter as a closed chapter and could hopefully commit our strength to Europe in the confidence that our soldiers over here in Europe would be in a structure which was safe and sound, that we were not putting our troops in the midst of what has historically been the world's worst fire hazard.

NOT LIGHTLY MADE

"Now a commitment of that character is not lightly made and I would say in all frankness that as the situation stands today it would not be possible for the President of the United States to renew that commitment.

"There has been a great wave of disillusionment which has swept over the United States and it is particularly manifest in the Congress."

"That conclusion is so disastrous in my opinion both for the nations of Europe and for the United States that I hope most ardently that what is done here will make it possible to come to a different conclusion, and that it will change the atmosphere, the feeling in the United States to a degree which will permit of a renewal of the pledge by the United States to maintain in Europe such elements of its armed forces as may be necessary or appropriate to contribute our fair share of what is needed for the common defence of this North Atlantic area while the threat to that area exists. I cannot say at this moment that a renewal of that commitment is possible. I can say and must repeat that as things stand today it is not possible.

NEW PATTERN

"But if out of the elements of the situation which we are dealing, if again the Brussels treaty, as a nucleus, it is possible to find this new pattern, a continuing hope of unity among the countries of Europe that are represented here, and if the hopes that were tied into the European Defence Community treaty can reasonably be transferred into the arrangements which will be the outgrowth of this meeting, then I would certainly be disposed to recommend to the President that he should renew a pledge comparable to that which was offered in connection with the European Defence Community treaty."

"Obviously the context of the pledge would have to be changed, because in the form which was given it related distinctly to the European Defence Community Treaty. Just what rephrasing would be required to give it the 'new look' that would be appropriate to the new situation, that is a matter which I have not studied, and which could not usefully be studied until we know whether or not a promise of genuine and durable unity will come out of the deliberations of this gathering and those which may succeed it."—Reuter.

Britain's decision to maintain four divisions and a tactical air force in Europe is the biggest commitment she has ever pledged to Continental Europe and far exceeds that she undertook to support the European army project, observers said.

FORMIDABLE ONE

Mr Eden said the undertaking, which he described as "very formidable one" depended on the successful outcome of the present conference.

If the conference failed, Britain would not regard herself as committed to the pledge to the conference, Mr Eden said.

Mr Eden in his statement said Britain would continue to maintain on the mainland of Europe, including Germany, the effective strength of the British forces now assigned to the Supreme Allied Command in Europe.

Mr Eden said the four divisions and a tactical air force would be a "substantial contribution" to the European army project, which he said was "a very formidable one."

Mr Eden said these troops would not be withdrawn against the wishes of the majority of the Brussels treaty powers who should take their decision in the knowledge of the Supreme Allied Commander's view.

IN EMERGENCY

Mr Eden said his undertaking would be subject to the understanding that an acute overseas emergency might oblige the British Government to omit this procedure.

If the maintenance of the United Kingdom forces on the mainland of Europe threw at any time too heavy a strain on British external finances, Britain would invite the NATO Council to review the financial conditions on which the formations were maintained.

Mr Eden, according to an official statement later, told the conference after Mr Dulles' statement: "I think we all feel that we have just listened to a statement from the United States Secretary of State of very rare quality and much valued frankness. What he has said to us, those of us who are Europeans, is, I think, all that in present conditions we could possibly expect from the United States."

"As we survey these post-war years, I fear, too readily at times take for granted what this generous brother has done for us in Europe at times when but for his help all must have collapsed in confusion and, perhaps, in Communism too."

"On behalf of the country I represent here, I would like to assure him that what the United States has done are not 'all good deeds past, forgotten as soon as done'—but will be remembered with thankfulness, and not for our own sake alone."

"So I would like to tell Mr Foster Dulles that the words he had said, so far as our Government is concerned, will be examined with gratitude and with understanding. And that we shall do our best to believe this conference will do its best to provide worthy of that greater confidence that the United States will show as we establish our ability to prove our unity and our strength."

Mr Eden recalled that Britain, like the United States Government, gave a series of undertakings to the EDC.

"We gave them by treaty, we gave them by agreement, and as I have already informed my colleagues, we stand by those undertakings, and we are ready to reaffirm them," he said.

"They are not, I think, unimportant but some of them are, it is true, inapplicable to the absence of EDC, some of them that have as a result of the disappearance of EDC, now disappeared, may, and probably will, be covered by the proposals which this conference is now considering."

The provision of automatic military assistance for instance, which was contained in our treaty with EDC will be produced. I trust, by the proposed enlargement of the Brussels treaty, co-operation between the armed forces; consultation about the level of forces, will all now take place, though perhaps within a different framework."

DEFENDS ON WORK

Of course, you will understand that the undertakings we are prepared to give, does depend on the outcome of our work," said Mr Eden.

"If we succeed here, then this undertaking stands. If we do not, then the Government would not regard itself as committed to what I have said this afternoon. That applies to the whole of our work, all the work that we are doing here."

TOGLIATTI WILL LEAD ATTACK ON SCALBA GOVT

Rome, Sept. 29.

Italy's Moscow-trained Communist boss took the lead today in the left-right pincers attack on Premier Mario Scelba's Government over the "scandal" death of Wilma Montesi.

Red chieftain Palmiro Togliatti was scheduled to blast the middle-road Scelba regime when the Chamber of Deputies renews its scandal debate.

Tough Togliatti was expected to charge that Scelba, his Government, the Police he used to command, and his political party was to blame for bungling investigations into the death of pretty, plumpish Wilma, a party girl.

The scandal resulted in the resignations of a Foreign Minister, and a Police chief and a top-spy view of high and low society caught with their alibis down.

Togliatti, who for this occasion has joined forces with city from where the Deputies are debating the moral, social and political aspects of the explosive case.

As the debating appeared to wear thin, with most everything said that could be said; new arrests were expected.

Already in goal is Piero Piccioni, son of Italy's resigned Foreign Minister, on suspicion of aggravated manslaughter involving drugs.

Behind goal bars as an accomplice is a self-styled "Marquis" Ugo Montagna, whose alleged friendship with Government big-wigs has provided the much-racked Communist press with ammunition of the sort Togliatti is expected to use skillfully tomorrow.—United Press.

PALMIRO TOGLIATTI

Right-wing Neo-Fascists and Monarchists, winds up the drive of the left and extreme right to unseat Scelba in a vote of confidence expected possibly tomorrow.

SCALBA VICTORY

A similar drive in the Senate ended last Saturday with a 114 to 87 victory for the Red-baiting Scelba.

He also was expected to carry the Chamber, despite the solid opposition and some possible splits within his small centre party.

There, however, would be small and not affect the final voting which Government circles predicted would be around 303 votes to 278—or a 25-vote margin.

Meanwhile, investigations continued into the mystery death of Wilma Montesi, whose half-nude body was found on a beach south of Rome on April 11, 1953.

INVESTIGATIONS

The investigations were carried on by the Italian police, who were expected to bring up to date a list of names of persons who had been in contact with the deceased.

BURMA TO STAY OUT OF SEATO PACT

Tokyo, Sept. 29.

Burmese Minister of Industry U Kyaw Nyein said today that Burma does not want to join SEATO because she hopes to stay neutral in the cold war, but added that Burmese foreign policy is strongly influenced by her proximity to Communist China.

"Burma," Nyein said, "does not want to join any bloc" in spite of strong pressure from the Communists as well as the West.

"What Finland is to Russia, Burma is to Communist China," he said.

However, he explained, Socialists in Burma are almost surrounded by members of the British Commonwealth and tied to them by trade and culture.

WAR INFANTS

Nyein, also a leading member of Burma's ruling Socialist Party, said that the foreign policy of any country is a reflection of domestic policy. He said newly independent countries like Burma, India and Indonesia were born in the wreckage of World War II, and like infants, needed to strengthen themselves.

Nyein leaves tonight for Rangoon after negotiating and initiating a war reparations agreement by which Japan will pay Burma a total of $250,000.

The treaty will take effect upon ratification and payments are to be completed during a 10-year period. A sum of $200,000 is to be paid by Japan in goods and services and $50,000,000 for joint Japanese-Burmese investments. Nyein said that $20,000,000 of the latter amount would be a loan by the Japanese Government to Burma to finance the import of Japanese goods.

NO TROUBLE

Nyein said that there should be no trouble involved in completing ratification the next time the Burmese Parliament meets in February.

"I personally don't see any difficulty," he said. Nyein was asked about reported adverse reaction in Burma to the reparations terms. He replied, "Some people will always be against anything. You have to convince the man in the street and the political opposition."

He said the Japanese Foreign Minister, Katsuo Okazaki, has a "pending invitation" to go to Rangoon for the formal signing as soon as ratification was completed.

JAP TECHNICIANS

Nyein said that Burma would use Japanese technicians in Burma as part of the reparations agreement, "but not too many. A small country is always afraid of 'being swallowed up.'"

He said he could not explain why Japanese-Philippine reparations talks are so far unsuccessful. He said negotiations between Japan and Burma were completely sincere.

"It is a question of love begetting love," he said. Nyein said the biggest difficulty in the way of a peace treaty between Burma and Japan is over.

Asked whether the treaty would be patterned on the San Francisco peace treaty or the Japanese-Indian bilateral agreement, he said, "Words don't mean anything between lovers" when there is understanding.

He said a "suitable model" for the treaty would be used.—United Press.

U.S. City To Pay Old British Debt

Felham, New York, Sept. 29. A high British official will attend the City of Felham's 300th anniversary celebrations on October 10 to accept 20 shillings rent which the city has just discovered it had owed to Britain ever since 1687.

The debt was discovered when a reporter, browsing through a local history, found an entry dated October 25, 1687, and saying: "Thomas Dongan, Captain General of the Province of New York, and over the Province of New York, under his Most Sacred Majesty James the Second, grants unto John Pell, his heirs and assigns, all the before mentioned land (now Felham, New Rochelle, and part of the City of New York) a perpetual yearly rent of 20 shillings."

Mr Gordon Miller, Town Supervisor, admits that as the town's chief administrator, he is "steward of the Manor of Felham" and has invited Mr F.B.A. Randall, British Consul-General, to come and collect the 20 shillings.

The Consulate said Mr Randall would call for the rent himself, unless he was prevented by preparations for the visit to the United States of Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother, in which case a high civil servant would attend.—China Mail Special.

NEW LORD MAYOR OF LONDON

London, Sept. 29. A wealthy stockbroker, Alderman H. W. Seymour Howard, was elected new Lord Mayor of London in the City Corporation's ancient Guildhall here today.

Mr Seymour Howard, 60, is a past master of the Gardeners Company and senior partner in the stockbroking firm of Charles Stanley and Company.—Reuter.

Nautical Parrot

Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 29. A new parrot batted contentment at the Wellington Zoo by announcing its arrival with a colourful flow of most nautical language.

The bird was immediately ruled out as an exhibit in the children's section, and sent instead to keep company with a bunch of noisy macaws.

"They might be flock of a bright hue but their outlook, be it a drag or a contrast, an official said. "They keep the parrot in its place by their equivalent of 'don't mess with the nautical'."—China Mail Special.

Bills Passed To Curb Sex Laxity

Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 29. Three bills designed to curb sex laxity among New Zealand's teenagers became law tonight when they passed their third reading in the House of Representatives.

The measures were introduced in Parliament after nationwide publicity was given to police disclosures of immorality among school children.

The new legislation incorporates the recommendations of a special committee which interviewed hundreds of witnesses throughout the country.

Its report, handed to the Government last week, was described as "the world's first specific appraisal of juvenile sex delinquency."

MORAL CHAOS

The report, which said there was "moral chaos" in parts of New Zealand, will be sent to every parent in the country.

The new measures will tighten controls on literature stressing sex, crime and horror, make it illegal for adolescents to have sexual intercourse and outlaw the sale of contraceptives and instruction in their use to children under 16.

Souls in Conflict

New York, Sept. 29. A colour movie entitled "Souls in Conflict" aimed against the background of evangelist Billy Graham's recent visit to Britain had its premiere here last night.

The film is a religious documentary the lives of an actress, a jet pilot and a factory worker. The roles are played by Joan Winfield, Eric Micklewood and Charles Lane.—United Press.

ITALY'S GOVT

Rome, Sept. 29. The Italian Government today sent a formal message of condolence to the British Government on the death of Lord Mountbatten.

The message was signed by the Italian Prime Minister, Alcide De Gasperi.—China Mail Special.

HITLER'S BARGE

Dumbarton, Sept. 30. A barge from Hitler's luxury yacht, the Grille, is to carry mail, cargo and passenger services between the Orkney county town of Kirkwall and the island of Shapinsay in the Orkney Islands.

The barge, waiting here for a suitable opportunity to be taken to Kirkwall, has been bought by Captain William Denison, who operates the island service.

The 37-foot-long barge is operated by a 75 horsepower motor. It has been renamed the Klydon III.—China Mail Special.

Locomotive Building Contracts Awarded

Washington, Sept. 29.

A multimillion dollar United States contract for 100 locomotives for India has been split between American, Japanese and European manufacturers, Mr Harold Stassen, director of the Foreign Operations Administration, announced today.

Questioned at a press conference about the allocation of the contract he said 50 of the locomotives would be built by the American firm of Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton in Philadelphia, 25 by the Japanese Rolling Stock Export Company, Tokyo, (which had submitted the lowest tender) and the remaining 25 would be manufactured in Europe.

India is receiving the locomotives as well as 5,000 railway wagons under the foreign aid programme.

20 MILLION

The complete contract involves about 20 million dollars.

When the first announcement on contract awards was made on September 4, Mr Stassen said the Japanese firm would probably manufacture half the locomotives and the American firm the other half.

Today he said this decision had to be changed as far as the Japanese order was concerned because the Japanese manufacturers could build 25 of the locomotives within the specified time schedule. This brought European producers into the picture as India needed the equipment at an early date, he added.—Reuter.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Tricky Hands Even Stump Experts

By OSWALD JACOBY

WHEN today's hand was played in a recent tournament, a club was opened at the most tables. Sometimes the West player opened the second of clubs, the "top of nothing," and in some cases West opened the lowest club, adopting the principle of many leading experts that a low card should be opened from such a holding.

In a few cases, South played low from the dummy at the first trick. East signalled encouragement by playing the eight, and South was allowed to win the first trick. When South next led a spade, West played the ace at once and led another club, forcing out dummy's ace.

South now had four spades, two hearts and two clubs. He needed a diamond as his ninth trick, but he couldn't get it. As soon as declarer touched the diamonds, East put up the ace of diamonds and ran the rest of the clubs to defeat the contract.

One declarer saw this danger and concocted a very ingenious play to make his contract. He won the first trick with the ace of clubs instead of trying the

YOUR BIRTHDAY By STELLA

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30

BORN today, you are not as practical as you should be. You dream of the future and are disinclined to do much about what is happening today. You should learn to concentrate on something until the job is done before going off on some new and more exciting flight of fancy.

Your moods are fluctuating. One moment you are on the heights—the next in the lowest depth. One instant you are sure that you can conquer the world, single-handed; the next minute you are just as sure that the whole world is all coming to a sad and dreary end. Learn to analyse things a little more rather than let your imagination and emotions work on your common sense. You have very keen intuition, and are at times, actually psychic. Learn to recognise this and pay attention to your "hunches."

You are fond of all things beautiful and you women enjoy wearing fine clothes and jewelry. You have a charming magnetic personality and probably will have a host of admirers. You also may be somewhat of a flirt. Yet, once you have made your selection of a marriage partner, you are loyal and seem to devote all your energies to running your house and family. Your home life should be a very happy one.

Among those born on this date are: William Wrigley, manufacturer; Ralph Forbes and Kenny Baker, actors; Lewis Milestone, film director; Nathan Smith, educator; Samuel S. Cox, statesman.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—A fine day for new ideas. Make use of them at your place of business or in your profession. You can advance now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Financial matters which may need attention can be properly taken care of now. Your mind should be clear for action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—One of those three-star days! You can do anything you want with full realization that it will succeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Get off to a good, early start this morning. You have a lot to do—and a good day to do it in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—You may have a winning idea for the solution to a problem at the office. It could bring you a raise, too.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—You may now project anything you wish and anticipate a fine success. Take a point to cultivate more friends.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—You have the big idea which will put you really on the road to success. Be sure to recognize it.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—Business aspects are good now. You may make those expansions you have been postponing with assurance of success.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—One of those days when you seem to know exactly what to do about things—and have the energy to do it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22)—Inventions and original ideas could bring you to the attention of the boss now. His response should be favourable, too.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)—You may not go about things in the conventional way, but the chances are that you will succeed beyond your anticipations.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)—Begin the new month with optimism. You have the prospect of achieving a goal, long anticipated, very soon.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To remove rust from the corners of cake tins in use a long time, dip a raw potato in cleaning powder and scour.

For a tighter wrap on a package, dampen the string before use. The string shrinks as it dries.

When greasing muffin tins, be sure to wipe the excess fat from each cup. A too heavy coating of fat causes uneven rising of the muffin batter.

Cook a stick of whole cinnamon and three whole cloves with the sugar and water when making the syrup for fruit compote. The result is a mild spicy flavour for the fruit.

Save wear and tear on the heels and toes of nylon stockings by rubbing these portions with a small piece of beeswax.

Next time you're washing baby's clothes, add a few tablespoons of bicarbonate of soda to the soap-suds. The soda leaves cottons with a fresh, clean smell because it both neutralises acids and deodorises.

Appetising Picnic Fare Cooked On A Skewer

By ALICE DENHOFF

THE emphasis is on picnic fare, so let's be off to the country or the seashore! Bring along the metal skewers!

If no skewers are available, then use medium gauge steel wires. Cut one end obliquely to serve as a point; form a handle by bending the other end. Let the menfolk take care of that part of it! And if there are neither skewers nor medium gauge steel wires, green branches will do.

Dip skewers or substitutes in salad oil or run 'em through a garlic clove, then alternate 6 or 7 chunks of meat, vegetables or fruits. Grill, turning and brushing with barbecue sauce or melted butter.

Shish-kebab combinations include chunks of lamb, tiny onions and salami; scallops, mushrooms and dill pickle; pineapple, ham and banana; tiny tomatoes, shrimp and green pepper chunks. Any number of delicious combinations are available besides the traditional lamb most of us know.

Out-of-door cooking gives you foods as you like them—plus a generous seasoning of fresh air.

Please the pre-picnic pickle fletcher with a hot snack to keep the criminal happy and out of the pickle jar. Run two skewers lengthwise through a big piece of salami, heat on one side of the grill, carve and serve between thin slices of buttered bread.

P.S. Pass the pickles early.

Maybe we can't all get to brown. Serve with a piquant sauce. For a thrifty and easy picnic idea, try skillet hamburgers a la Jiggs.

Slice tinned corned beef and brown well in fat in a skillet. Serve on grilled hamburger buns. Serve the hamburgers with cole slaw, sliced tomatoes, and, for the particular eaters, some tartare sauce.

finesse. He next led the ten of diamonds from the dummy. East casually played a low diamond, naturally assuming South intended to try a finesse that was bound to lose.

South was not actually trying to finesse. He merely wanted to steal a diamond trick before developing the spades. When South put up the king of diamonds, it held the trick and he was now practically home.

Declarer switched next to the queen of spades, forcing out West's ace. A club continuation gave declarer his second trick in the suit, and he could now run four spades, two hearts, two clubs and the one diamond trick that he had stolen.

East could have defeated the contract by putting up the ace of diamonds at the second trick and returning a low club. Later on, West would have to take the first round of spades with the ace and lead his last club.

This defence simply didn't occur to East. I don't really wonder, since in my opinion it would occur to very few experts.

Two Knights Who Fight

—Their Names Are Sir Plop and Sir Ploop—

By MAX TRELL

KNARF, the shadow boy with the turned-about name, saw them standing there in the corner of the playground and he wondered who they were.

Both of them were wearing armor, big suits of armor which covered them from head to toe. Knarf couldn't even see their faces. They had long swords at their sides and they both carried sharp lances.

Horses in Armour

Next to each of the knights, for that is what they were, stood a horse. One horse was black, the other was white. Both horses wore armor, too.

The two knights stood very still as Knarf walked up to them. But Knarf was being careful just the same. He didn't want them to stick him with their sharp lances, or to pull out their swords and start whacking at him.

So, when he came within four or five inches of them, he stopped and said, "I'm Knarf."

"I'm Sir Plop," said the first knight. "Sir Plop of Plop's Castle."

"I'm Sir Ploop," said the second knight. "Sir Ploop of Ploop's Castle. Sir Plop is my cousin but I don't like him. We fight."

"Oh," said Knarf. "Just like Tweedledee and Tweedledum."

"I never heard of Tweedledee," said Sir Plop.

"I never heard of Sir Ploop," said Sir Ploop.

He Drew His Sword

Here Sir Plop suddenly, and for no good reason, as far as Knarf could understand, hit Sir Ploop on the head with his lance. Sir Ploop instantly drew his sword and whacked Sir Plop across the ears with it.

They both angrily sprang upon their mounts (or horses) and each rode to the opposite side of the room. Then they turned around and charged at each other with their lances, galloping their horses as fast as they would go.

Knarf was sure they were going to hurt each other.

There was a terrific crash as the two knights met in the middle of the room. The lances were splintered into tiny pieces, and both knights fell off their mounts. The mounts ran off to get out of the way.

Meanwhile, both knights rose heavily to their feet—for it was not easy getting up with all their armor on—and both of them drew their swords.

"I'm ready to keep on fighting, Sir Plop!" said Sir Ploop.

"So am I, Sir Ploop!" said Sir Plop.

Then they both whacked at each other with their swords. At last, both swords broke in half and couldn't be used any more.

They Were Very Tired

It was a good thing, too, for Sir Plop and Sir Ploop were both so tired they sat on the floor, unable to move.

Knarf introduced himself to the two knights in armor.

"Who won?" Sir Plop asked Knarf.

"One of us must have won," said Sir Ploop. "Was it me or him?"

"I don't know," Knarf said again.

"Very stupid boy," Sir Plop said to Sir Ploop.

"Foxy," said Sir Ploop to Sir Plop.

A few minutes later both knights were fast asleep, snoring loudly. Knarf was glad the fight was over. He hoped they wouldn't fight again. Then he went over and gave a carrot to each of the horses.

LAST NIGHT'S BOXING HEAVYWEIGHTS HAD THE CROWD IN AN UPROAR

(By Our Boxing Correspondent)

A capacity crowd packed the Missions to Seamen last night at a boxing show in aid of the late AB J. Cook's Memorial Fund. This most worthy cause benefited to the extent of around $2,000 and the big crowd benefited to the extent of 13 lively and interesting bouts.

It has long been said that the Mission is the place to visit if you want to see action and thrills in the ring, and last night's audience got enough of both in the heavy-weight meeting of Buck and Ashby to do them for a long time.

These two Army heavyweights really had the crowd in an uproar as they scoured in a manner of defence and attack. Buck got pinned in his own corner and blows by the dozen crashed through his guard. He looked in a very bad way and then, almost in a split of self salvation, he threw a desperate punch and there was Ashby stretching his length on the canvas.

He took a count of six while Buck took several very welcome deep breaths as Ashby got to his feet. It was Buck who launched into the attack. Once again it was a 'slug-fest' in the very best sense of that Americanism. Just before the bell Buck landed another powerful blow and Ashby was again on the floor.

The second round was a repetition of the first and seldom have I seen so many blows exchanged in one bout. Both men stood and threw punches and both were looking very weary indeed when Ashby stopped another one with his chin. He was virtually helpless on the ropes and the referee stopped between them and awarded the decision to Buck.

The crowd did not take kindly to the referee's intervention... but there is not a shadow of a doubt about it... he was absolutely right. Thank you... Buck and Ashby... for a terrific scrap. All in all it was a good bill and with names like Samyint, Baker, Rollinson and Monaghan it could hardly be otherwise.

QUICKNESS OF THE HAND DECEIVED THE EYE, THEN THE GAME CAME TO LIFE

By I. M. MacTAVISH

Ladies and Gentlemen... Observe me closely... the quickness of the hand deceives the eye... sometimes baffles it... The Call of the gully-gully man? No, but it might well be the catch phrase of the Army's ebullient centre-forward, Morris.

Kitchee was leading the Army by two goals to one with 12 minutes of this game, which was played at Caroline Hill yesterday, still to go. A long through pass from Middleton started a strong Army attack down the right wing.

Kitchee defenders conceded a couple of corner kicks in quick succession and, as the ball flew across the front of the goal, several players leapt high in the air. Above them all jumped Morris and in a flash the ball was in the net.

Kitchee ends Army players like stood stock still for a fleeting moment. Then, with the realisation that referee Stanley had awarded a goal, the two sets of players untwined and dashed in very different directions. The Army players rushed to congratulate Morris for his equaliser... the Kitchee players rushed to the referee to protest vigorously that the Army centre-forward had punched the ball into the net.

Referee Stanley was right on the spot and within a few yards of the scorer, and he flatly refused to consult his linesman. He turned a deaf ear to all the pleadings of the Kitchee players and the score stood at 2-1.

NO DOUBT AT ALL.
After the game Morris said that there was no doubt at all that the ball went into the net off his hand. He said that as he jumped to head it he was shouldered by a Kitchee defender and instead of getting the ball on the forehead as he had intended, it struck his hand.

Malayans Hope To Retain Ho Ho Cup

The Malayan Chinese Ho Ho Cup football team manager, Lim Kee-siong, said on arrival early this morning that "we have a fifty-fifty chance" of retaining the Cup against the Hongkong Chinese, who are represented by Nationalist China's Asian Games football champions.

Mr Lim arrived from Singapore by CFA with eight of his team's supporters: Sixteen Chinese and four non-Chinese players, including the former RAF-Hongkong goalie, Dave MacLaren, four officials and 17 supporters are due to arrive tomorrow morning.

Mr Lim said his players would have a light workout tomorrow evening at the South China stadium, site of the three matches they will play here.

Mr Lim and his party were met at the airport by the Chairman of the Hongkong Football Association, Mr C. S. Wang, the Chairman of the Chinese Amateur Athletic Federation, Mr George Sim, and other officers and committee members of the CAAP.

The Interport proper will be played on Saturday. The Malayan Chinese will meet Hongkong Representatives on Sunday and All-Hongkong on Tuesday.

After the local series they will play in Macao and Rangoon. The visitors have never won a Ho Ho Cup match here.

Turpin Wants To Train In Wales

Kimmel, Sept. 29.
Randolph Turpin, Britain's former world middleweight champion, has asked permission to use the Kimmel army barracks, North Wales, as training headquarters for his return to the ring as a light-heavyweight in November.

The barracks are only a few hundred yards from Turpin's new home. Turpin's manager, George Middleton, was quoted today as saying: "Nothing has been fixed yet but we are hopeful of getting the use of those military quarters. I have been in contact with the Officer Commanding and hope to secure permission next week. I doubt whether the War Office would allow public visitors at Turpin's quarters."

It will be done with the sanction of the War Office and the British Army will be pleased to have such a famous sportsman in their midst.

and shot into the net. Gully... gully... gully... This was a game that had its great moments and its disappointing ones. There were patches of magnificent ball to ball play by the Chinese players and there were spells of high pressure football from the soldiers.

The game opened with thrust-and-parry play as both sides tried to judge the strength and weaknesses of the opposition. It was early obvious that Kitchee was going to provide the classic stuff while the Army played a much more open game. There was danger in both styles and Kitchee were very unlucky when a strong drive crashed back into play off the woodwork.

The Army went into the lead midway through the open half when Stonehouse ran on to a fast through pass, held the ball just long enough to tempt Chung Koon-hing out of his goal, and then drove it low into the far corner of the net.

SQUARED ACCOUNT
A typical Hau Ching-to goal squared the account just before the interval when he drove a powerful right-foot shot into the net to take full toll of a bad mix-up in the Army's rear lines.

Kitchee deservedly went into the lead a few minutes after the interval when Chu Wing-keung put a brilliant finish to an equally brilliant forward movement by heading the ball into the net wide of Taylor.

The Chinese held the upper hand for the next 16 minutes but the Army—very fit side—then started to apply the pressure and Robson got his heavy artillery into action. A couple of his piledrivers just scrapped over the bar but he was the power behind every Army attack and is already a favourite with the Chinese fans.

Morris brought the scores level with his original gully-gully act and then the game really came to life. Kitchee fought desperately, but the soldiers now had their tails up and drove another attack into the first Kitchee goal.

Higgins lifted a high ball into the goal area. It bobbed about for a few seconds, then broke loose to Morris on the six yards line and the big centre made no mistake about getting it into the net.

With two minutes left for play, Morris sealed off the game for the Army when he rose high in the air to nod a perfect cross from Robson into the net. Once again it was the fiery redhead, Higgins, who started the move with an accurate through pass to Robson away up on the right touchline.

ATROCIOUS LUCK
Kitchee are due a great deal of sympathy because on the

New York Giants Win Opening Game Of The World Series

New York, Sept. 29.

The underdog New York Giants won a 5-2 victory in the opening game of the 1954 World Series today when rookie Dusty Rhodes slammed a three-run pitch-homer in the 10th inning.

Eleven to 10 favourites to take the opener as the series got under way under serene blue skies, the Indians threatened to run right away with the game as they scored a pair of runs in the first inning off crafty Sal Maglie.

But the first inning is over the final one, as the Indians came to rue when Rhodes, angry over riding the bench, belted his game-winning home run in the 10th.

Maglie, defeated in his only other series appearance, was nervous and threw three straight balls to Al Smith before winding up and hurling one which struck the batter.

Bobby Avila, the American League Batting Champion, fumbled with a Texas League single to right, and when Don Mueller fumbled the ball, Smith went to third.

Veteran Sal steadied then and got Larry Doby and Al Rosen on pop-ups. But facing him next was Vic Wertz, and the man whom nobody wanted at the beginning of the season.

Maglie threw a triple off the right field wall 393 feet, away from the plate to drive in both Smith and Avila.

Dave Philley fled out to end the inning, but the embattled Giants were two runs down with the game hardly warm.

The never-say-die, however, came back in the third frame. Whitely Lockman slipped a single into right field, and Alvin Dark lined a hit to centre sending Lockman to third.

Mueller bounced sharply to Avila, forcing Dark at second, but Lockman scooted home on Doby made it 4-2.

NO MORE TROUBLE
Then in came Grissom, a 30-year-old veteran, and he got the Indians out with no more trouble. Cleveland threatened again in the ninth and tenth, but that's as far as they got.

In the last of the 10th, Mueller went down swinging. Next Bob Lemon looked down the lane and there was the menacing Mays, best hitter in the National League this season.

Lemon wavered slightly and walked, and Mays promptly stole second. Thompson was purposely walked to set up a double play. But a double play was not in the cards.

Jim (Dusty) Rhodes, his anger mounting because he was riding the bench and not playing regularly today, strode up to the

HKAAC Annual Meeting

The Rev. Fr. D. J. Lawler, S.J., was re-elected Chairman of the Hongkong Amateur Athletic Club at the club's annual general meeting, held at the Volunteer Centre yesterday.

Other office-bearers elected were: Vice-Chairman, Mrs. J. Van Vleet; Hon. Secretary, Mr. V. V. Koutchoff; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Roy Spencer; Committee Members, Messrs. J. E. P. Blenkinsop, G. B. Gurevitch and M. P. Curzon.

Father Lawler, in the course of his Chairman's address, paid tribute to the work of the club's Committee, particularly to that of Mr. J. A. C. Huribatt and Mr. P. H. Ward.

The Club had not enjoyed the same successful year as it had in 1952/53, Father Lawler said, but it had lost a considerable part of its active membership and had much difficulty in the past season in raising a team.

However, Father Lawler said, there was reason to believe that the past year was only one and not the first of a succession of seven lean years and that the coming season would see more active members than inactive ones.

The HKAAC is endeavouring to have erected before the end of the coming season its first clubhouse—outside the new Government Stadium at Soekunpo, Father Lawler said. This will be a very unpretentious affair at best, but it will be a beginning.

Father Lawler mentioned the fact that the HKAAC had in the course of the past season had a club member participating in two international athletic festivals. He was referring to Stephen Xavier, who won third place in the 200 Metres Dash at the Second Asian Games at Manila and reached the semi-finals of the 220 Yards Dash at the British Empire Games at Vancouver.

Yesterday's annual general meeting lasted over two hours, the large part of it being devoted to discussion and voting on several changes in the club's constitution.

The meeting decided to start the new season with a get-together of the active members to decide on team matches and club events.

Yacht Club Looks To Future

This year's report marks what may well be claimed to be the end of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club's long period of recovery from war, when the Club fleet of yachts largely destroyed, it records definite progress and a degree of stability that may permit the Club to look with some confidence to the future, stated Mr. F. S. Coote, retiring Commodore of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club, at the Annual General Meeting of the RHYC which was held at the Clubhouse yesterday.

"As usual, the outstanding events were the Interclubs. We won both Cups in home waters, but lost them in the 'aways' in Manila and Macao. We shall look forward to their visits in the season; Macao and we hope the Miri Boat Club, for our Opening Regatta, and Manila during the first week-end in November. The Manila Yacht Club have notified us that their visiting members will number about 20."

"A still further encouragement to our rowing is the visit of the Cambridge University Boat Club, whom we are exceedingly pleased to welcome as our guests," said Mr. Coote. As last word of advice, Mr. Coote told the members:

"You are shortly going to elect your Officers and Management Committees for the coming year—let them manage. You can undoubtedly do them a great service in their thankless efforts to impose our Rules and Regulations and to uphold our traditions. Don't throw our traditions overboard—other Clubs have done this and regretted it. I feel we have now turned the corner and that if you will only pull together, our Royal Club will go from strength to strength."

Mr. A. G. Daisley was elected Commodore of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club, Mr. H. Spencer-Cooper was elected Vice-Commodore, while Commodore Thorold, O.B.E., D.S.O., was elected Rear-Commodore.

Diocesan Boys' Swimming Championships

The Diocesan Boys' School Swimming Sports, held at Lal-chilok's Lai Yuen Pool yesterday, despite the slight freshness in the weather, proved an unqualified success, and ended in a fairly comfortable victory for Sargent House, who won the Kwong Shun Challenge Shield with 100 points in second place, and Featherstone, which just edged out Sykes by a single point, in third place.

The Individual Champions—for the Hung Challenge Cups—were Seniors: Lee Wah (Sykes); Middle: Alan Mok (Sargent); Juniors: Chan Kam Wing (Featherstone).

Will History Repeat Itself In The Coming Test Series?

Another English cricket season has drawn to a close but with the departure of the MCC team for Australia a further exciting chapter in cricket's history opens. The forthcoming series will be followed with more than usual interest by lovers of cricket all over the world.

Winning that unique trophy "The Ashes" has long been regarded as a symbol of supremacy in international cricket and the fortunes of the struggle between those two oldest of rivals in international cricket, England and Australia, have constantly fluctuated over the years.

The present MCC team is the 25th to visit Australia. The first went there in 1861 but the series between the two countries is reckoned to begin with the visit of the England team which went to Australia in 1876-77, playing two Tests, each country winning one.

Since the scrubs began, 163 Tests have been played between the two countries—76 in England, 87 in Australia—of which England have won 57, Australia 68, and 38 have been drawn.

The "Ashes" came into being after Australia's first victory over the full strength of English cricket in England—by seven runs at the Oval in 1882. It was then that the "Sporting Times" published the mock "obituary" notice:

"In affectionate remembrance of English Cricket which died at the Oval, 28th August 1882, deeply lamented by a large circle of sorrowing friends and acquaintances. R.I.P."

N.B. The Body will be cremated and the Ashes taken to Australia.

The following winter of 1882-1883 an English team led by the Hon. Ivo Bligh went to Australia and there in the famous Long Room in the pavilion at Lord's cricket ground, London, and remains there whichever side wins a rubber.

Although a fourth Test was played at the end of the 1882-1883 series and was won by Australia, who thus squared the rubber, it was not originally intended that this match should be an official one, although it is now recognized as such.

Will history repeat itself in the coming series? After the First World War it took some time for English cricket to get back on its feet and Australia won three series in succession.

In the fourth in England in 1920 England won the fifth match, the only game to be decided, and so gained the Ashes.

In the next series in the winter of 1928-1929 the MCC team went to Australia under the captaincy of A.P.F. Chapman and retained the Ashes by winning four out of the five Tests. Similarly, after the Second World War Australia won three successive series then.

In the fourth in England in 1948 England won the fifth match, the only game to be decided, and so gained the Ashes.

The burning question now is will history repeat itself? The MCC team will carry this curious repetitive story a stage further by retaining the perpetuation of Chapman's men?

Certainly it is one of the strongest MCC sides that has been sent out to Australia since that time.

Two of the party of 17, England's "Compton" are: under the MCC players who have been sent out to Australia since that time.

THE SECOND GENERATION IS WELL ESTABLISHED ON THE SCREEN

Danny Thomas's daughter, Margaret and Bing Crosby's son, Lindsay are courting, and Alana, Alan Ladd's eldest, will marry actor Richard Anderson in December. Robert Dix, son of the late Richard Dix, is playing in "Interrupted Melody" with Eleanor Parker and Glenn Ford.

The second generation of actors is well established.

Alan Hale Jr., giant of a man, like his father, does the kind of parts his father would play. There are Lon Chaney Jr., Harry Carey Jr., the sons of Joel McCrea and John Wayne and now Melinda Markay, Joan Bennett's pretty daughter, Maria Riva, Marlene Dietrich's daughter, is busy in television and on the stage.

It's definite that Gary Crosby, who sings like his old man, will follow in his footsteps. This past summer, he took over Bing's radio show and reluctantly returned to Stanford University to finish his course in business administration.

CHANGE FOR HOLDEN
"I got a change in character," says Crosby. "I play a character who is a bit of a playboy. I play a character who is a bit of a playboy. I play a character who is a bit of a playboy."

Back from hectic doings in New York where he was from "The Seven Year Itch" were filmed, Marilyn Monroe went to bed with a heavy cold. Possibly due to having her skirts blown over her head a dozen times for a humorous episode. Photographers had a Roman holiday. Marilyn got the sniffles. The picture got publicity.

Comments of British critics on "Betrayed", and his acting, seem to amuse Clarke Gable. He has been showing the reviews to friends and chuckles over the trenchant notices. My opinion: he agrees with them. And as a free lance, player, he will choose his stories with care.

Promised for Spring: "The Tall Men" co-starring Mr. Gable and Jane Russell, which should have some lusty action.

This week's biggest problem: How to photograph well-curved Maureen O'Hara for her ride through Coventry as Lady Godiva. I learn that it will take three days to film Lady Godiva from all angles, and her long golden tresses, so any peeping Toms around won't see more than the censors allow.

SARITA MEANT IT
In Hollywood is a Mexican beauty, Carlotta Montell who co-starred with Burt Lancaster and Gary Cooper in "Vera Cruz". Sarita says that to her men aren't interesting until they are over 40 and a little bald. Which made many men in Hollywood take notice and smile. Until they discovered that Sarita has been married for 10 years to a bald man of 45. Sweet-are-they-uses-of-publicity-dept.

Before she left for Honolulu and "The Sea Chase" with John Wayne, Laraine Day, now a slim 5'8" stone, flew to Texas to see the oil wells she and Lex Barker own. "It's all happening at once," said Lana. If the oil wells produce as they hope, she'll be able to pay off her debts, accumulated during her last, unhappy, marriage.

MALAYA COULD DOUBLE RUBBER OUTPUT

Kyoto, Sept. 29.

A British delegate from Malaya to the 12th International conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, said today that three quarters of the land in Malaya was not being used and Malaya could double its output of rubber, a conference spokesman said.

The spokesman added, however, the delegate did not make any suggestions about what market increased rubber output could be directed to—nor did he make any reference to the problem of competition of United States synthetic rubber production. The spokesman expected that problems to be discussed later in the conference.

Delegates said Malaya had "very abundant" deposits of peat's clay, bauxite, iron ore and oil, the spokesman said.

Indians appeared to be losing association with their homeland, a delegate said, in spite of the fact that India wished to maintain close political and national ties with them.

RAIN-MAKING TESTS

Canberra, Sept. 29. Australia and the United States will co-operate in rain-making tests in Hawaii during the next few months, Mr. Athol Townley, Australian Air Minister, said here.

He said a Royal Australian Air Force detachment would leave for Honolulu carrying special equipment for the tests. Scientists from the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organisation would follow in civil aircraft.

Hawaii was an "ideal natural laboratory" for study of the phenomenon of warm cloud or non-freezing rain," Mr. Townley said.

The project is being financed by the United States—China Mail Special.

Israel Takes Issue With Truce Chief

Paris, Sept. 29.

The Israeli Government today took issue with a statement by General L. M. Burns, chief of the United Nations truce observation commission, that members of the commission had the right to inspect frontier areas without the permission or an escort of the countries concerned.

A communique by the Israeli Foreign Ministry broadcast tonight said General Burns had "gone beyond" the powers given him by the armistice agreements and no clause of the agreement could be modified "without the consent of the countries concerned."

The communique said the United Nations Security Council's decision of August 10, 1949, which General Burns quoted, did not give him the right "to encroach on the sovereignty of a member state of NATO."—France-Press.

Less Bloodshed Likely In Honduras

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Sept. 29.

As the election campaign in Honduras enters its last phase, with less than a month to go before polling day on October 10, political observers here believe that the election may end in a compromise.

They see little chance of either of the three parties contesting the election winning a clear majority over the other two—in which case, they say, it seems possible that, by general consent, the present President, the 68-year-old lawyer, Juan Manuel Galvez, will continue in office.

This solution which would presumably be followed by an amendment of the constitution forbidding the immediate re-election of the retiring President, is seen here as the means of avoiding an inter-party quarrel that might develop into bloodshed.

For the battle between the parties is rather to decide which party's candidate shall become President than because they have radically differing party programmes.

THREE PARTIES

The three parties contesting the elections are: the Nationalist Party which is at present in power; the Nationalist Reformist Movement, formed of dissidents from the Nationalist party; and the Liberal party.

The National party's candidate for the Presidency is General Carias Andino who ruled the country as a dictator for 10 years until he voluntarily ceded power and personally chose as his successor the Minister for War, the present Head of the State, President Galvez, who was elected "unopposed" in 1949.

General Carias Andino is making new pre-election promises. When in office before, he destroyed the roots of civil war by giving employment to, or discrediting, the small "caudillos" (strongmen) who were continually threatening the peace and restored law and order.

NATIONALIST

The Presidential candidate of the Nationalist Reformist Movement is General Abraham Williams, a 59-year-old engineer.

The Liberals, whose past administrations have been marked by internal disorders, and economic chaos, are advocating a new Constitution and a general amendment of the laws, which they consider out-of-date. They favour maintenance of the principles of republicanism, democratic and representative rule, freedom of political and labour organisation, the affirmation of the rights of men as proclaimed in the United Nations Charter, recognition of the rights of all workers in their own homes, their own plot of land, social security and protection for the family, equality of the sexes, the right of workers to organise in trade unions, and the creation of a civil service.

Their candidate for the Presidency is 48-year-old Dr. Ramon Villeda Morales—China Mail Special.

Nepal Renews Application For U.N. Membership

United Nations, Sept. 29. Nepal, the Himalayan buffer state between India and Tibet, today renewed its five-year-old application for membership in the United Nations.

Nepalese Foreign Minister, Dr. H. Regmi, in a letter to the Secretary-General, recalled that the Soviet Union had vetoed Nepal's application in 1949 because the Soviets wanted the simultaneous admission of several Communist States.

"It is difficult for us to appreciate the policy of making Nepal's admission to the United Nations conditional upon the admission of some other states," Regmi said.

INDEPENDENT

"Nepal, though small, is an independent and sovereign country and does not stick to any power bloc," but carries on her own foreign policy independently and she is able and willing to fulfil the obligations laid down in the Charter by working towards the goal of world peace," Regmi said.

Regmi said Nepal, Hungary, and Finland (also Communist States) were the only three countries to have been admitted to the United Nations since the end of the Second World War.

A Soap-Salesman Staged One Of History's Most Amazing Advertising Stunts

By DOUGLAS COBBAN

The date was Easter Monday, 1889. The scene, the shores of Lake Geneva. The cast, the washerwomen of the surrounding lakeside towns.

It was the first and last Fete des Blanchisseuses. And the stage-manager? A Swiss business genius called Lavanvachy, a Christian missionary turned soap-salesman. Motely to proclaim the wonders of a new soap, he had transported the bewildered washerwomen to the fete by steamer. Hordes of enthusiastic spectators were regularly conveyed from their seaside homes.

A wonderful banquet, free to all, ended the fete. It is still recalled as one of the most astonishing advertising stunts of all time.

From such fantastic seeds—and there were plenty planted in England, Germany, Holland and indeed, the world over—there sprang to fruition 40 years later the vast concern we know today as UNILEVER, the myriad-headed giant of the soap, margarine and kindred domains.

The names of greater wizards than Lavanvachy, of course, lay behind the signing on that September 2, 1929—just a quarter century ago this month—of the agreement amalgamating the former ferocious Continental and English rivals in the oils and fats world. Schlichts of Bohemia, the Jurgens and Van den Berghs of Holland, the Lever of England: these names star-studded a thrilling story of technical inventive genius, of business acumen, bitter personal and business clashes, of international intrigues.

It is a story that concerns us all. For who does not know of margarine? Who does not use soap?

Indeed, everyone feels one way or another, the effects on daily life of the approach of Big Business to questions of Capital and Labour, of scientific research; the effects of its mistakes, its crises, its gambles, its victories.

The UNILEVER merger of 1929 was only the climax of a long series of amalgamations between businesses which had a stake in more than soap and margarine factories. They controlled, as Unilever does now, Antarctic whaling companies, oil mills, refineries—all over the globe. Of the entire tonnage of oils and fats, finding its way into world commerce, they bought and processed more than a third. They sold the products of these oils and fats, and many other products, to customers everywhere. They employed nearly a quarter of a million people, and represented more than a hundred millions of capital.

remarckable publication, "The History of Unilever," in two volumes, extending to over 800 pages, this is not just a history of the 600 and more businesses, large and small, that have been drawn into the Unilever net. The development of the unified concern is brilliantly portrayed against the social and economic background of the past 100 years.

We are shown how the mushroom growth of new industrial towns in the latter half of the 19th Century, notably in Germany, brought from millions of margarine consumers the demand for cheap fats. We are told how English and Continental chemists—some German chemists worked in England as well as at home—played their part in satisfying demands for ever-better quality soap. And these demands were coming from workers whose wages for the first time allowed them the luxury of daily cleanliness.

The competitive, ever-widening search for the essential raw materials—olive oil, cotton seeds, corn groundnuts—ranged from the Solomon Islands to West Africa. And it is a tale of tragedies and triumphs. From it we learn such incidents as the fact that ivory nuts were shipped by Lever from the Solomons to Germany for the manufacture of buttons.

Modern day conflicts, such as the pressure of State interests upon private business, accentuated by the two world wars, form an important part of the story. This embraces a wide field—problems of frozen currencies, problems of what are mildly described as "strong movements" towards autocracy in certain countries.

The fears and arguments surrounding the dreaded word "monopoly" are plainly set forth. They are an integral part of the story. The internationalism to modern rationalisation as exemplified in giant industries today. The story makes plain how such arch-individualists as Lever and the Jurgens and Van den Berghs were forced to amalgamate their explosive energies.

But even they would find consolation in the epilogue, to the two volumes. "The important fact in this post-war world of oils and fats remains the keenly competitive character of the trade. . . . It is safe to say that after a century of association and amalgamation there is more than enough competition left in the oils and fats industries to maintain full efficiency; and a better stimulus to efficiency has yet to be devised."

The reasons compelling the huge amalgamation that is Unilever are summarised as: "The pressure of powerful economic forces; the continual demand of new technological processes for capital; the risks of the raw material market; the increasing cost of the dairy produce market."

Particular emphasis is laid on the changes in the principles of management forced by modern conditions upon great industrial undertakings. As the family conception of business made way for the wider corporate conception, the owner-manager was replaced by the professional manager. To this new leader the changing world outside "is scarcely less important than the business itself." He has brought beneficial changes, too, in the relationships of management and labour.

The late Lord Leverhulme, founder of the English firm of Lever, sought throughout his life for a solution of economic and social difficulties "through enlightened management." The "History" describes this as his "most important contribution to industrial progress" and his answer to those who contend that the problems of industrial and social relations can be solved through replacing private by State ownership. "The major problems of modern industry," in Leverhulme's view, arose "from the size rather than from the nature of the ownership of industry."

The lively portraits of not only Lord Leverhulme but of his collaborators had the good fortune to "stumble" (as he says) on the whole of Lord Leverhulme's business correspondence—30,000 files of up to 100 letters each! Despite such an "embarrass de richesse," Mr Wilson has maintained an objective course in a rare analysis of an individual firm's contribution to industrial and social evolution.

World Cotton Markets

New York, Sept. 29. Cotton prices today proved unable to hold early rallying tendencies in face of increased hedge selling and realising.

Possibilities for an increase in the Government's October crop estimate, suggested by the current heavy rate of ginning, and a lull in the trade demand, acted to change market sentiment.

Initial gains up to 40 cents a bale were converted gradually into net losses, with the December delivery going through 1 1/2 cents a pound.

Interest in the world series baseball game acted to slow down interest to some extent. Others thought the market was still consolidating its position after last week's rise to seasonal highs.

Liverpool brokers were small buyers in the Dec.-March-May deliveries, supposedly to undo positions with the British market.

Trading volumes and open interest in the Exchange today were:

LABOUR'S NEW PLAN FOR THE COLONIES

By Fraser Wighton
Scarborough, Sept. 30.

Britain's Labour Party has decided that when it next forms a government it will act to wipe out Britain's age-old colonial system and build in its place a multi-racial Commonwealth.

What was once a mighty empire of subject races is to be transformed into a new world organisation with former colonies, such as the Gold Coast and Nigeria, in equal partnership with Britain.

Delegates representing the party's six million members enthusiastically endorsed this policy at the annual conference yesterday.

Many were impatient at the thought of any delay in putting it into force. They wanted the party leaders to pledge that the next Labour Government would immediately call a round-table colonial conference at which target dates for full self-government for the colonies would be set.

LEADERS CAUTIOUS
But the leaders, more cautious, persuaded them not to push a resolution to this effect to a vote. The executive promised to consider it.

Mr. James Griffiths, the greying Welshman who was once Colonial Secretary, put the plan to the conference for the executive with almost evangelical fervour.

But he warned that when Britain handed over power to the 50 or so colonial territories under her control, she was entitled to ensure that they would choose Democracy as their system of government.

The task of transforming the colonies thus was "big and difficult," he said, and it would be unwise and impracticable for a Labour government immediately to announce early target dates for independence.

DIFFERENT STAGES
The colonies were all at different stages of economic, social and political advancement.

Mr. Griffiths said: "We are determined that when the time has been reached and conditions made it practicable, Labour as a government will enter into discussions with responsible leaders of the people in the colonial territories for self government."

Labour's new colonial policy statement affirms its vigorous opposition to racialism in any form and insists on the equality of respect for all men and women "regardless of race, colour or creed."

The interests of the inhabitants of each colony must be of paramount consideration.

EQUAL PARTNERS
"Our aim is a multi-racial Commonwealth in which Britain and the former dependent territories work together as equal partners for the benefit of all. Larger territories will become independent states, smaller territories may form a federation.

"For scattered territories too small to stand alone arrangements will have to be worked out in agreement with their people for association with Britain in the Commonwealth."

The conference overwhelmingly rejected a resolution from the Harrow (London) local labour party calling for the withdrawal of all British troops from foreign occupation "as a first step towards self determination for all colonial people."—China Mail Special.

Rearmament

Mr Bevan's Definition Of Labour View

Scarborough, Sept. 29.
Mr. Aneurin Bevan, leader of the British Labour Party's left-wing, told a mass meeting tonight that the party was not "lined up behind the rearming of Germany."

He was referring to the narrow adoption at the Labour Party conference here yesterday of the Party Executive's resolution calling for talks with other European Socialist parties on how best to rearm Germany.

It was carried by 3,270,000 votes to 3,022,000. Mr. Bevan's supporters opposed the resolution.

Mr. Bevan declared: "The real view of the movement is: they still want to know what the qualifications and protective safeguards are before they are behind rearming of Western Germany."

He said that the majority for arms for Germany was so small that, having regard to the party constitution, it could be said that there was a heavy majority of the party against the resolution, "it is clear."

Hard Labour Sentence Confirmed
The sentence of six months' hard labour on Kwok Kuen, alias Al Tai, 50-year-old Chinese man of no fixed address who was recently convicted of three counts of obtaining money by false pretences, was confirmed by Mr. Lawrence Leong, upon review at Central this morning.

Kwok was alleged to have swindled a total of $190 on three different occasions in May this year from Fung Suk at 95 Gloucester Road, 11th floor, on the pretext that the money was to be used for registration, boarding, and school fees at the Diocesan Boys' School on behalf of Lau Yiu-kwan.

As grounds for the appeal for reduction of sentence, Kwok told his Worship that he had been living in Hongkong for 50 years without committing any offence. This time he was only involved by a friend, and that he had very heavy family responsibilities.

YEAR'S STUDY LOST
Rejecting the appeal, His Worship said the maximum penalty for this kind of offence was five years' imprisonment. Kwok was convicted on three charges, with a fifth charge taken into consideration.

His Worship pointed out that the offence committed was not only serious but also very mean in that he, the accused, had held up the hope of a boy to go to school for nearly three months.

When the accused was released it was already too late for the boy to enter school. In other words, the boy had lost a year's study. His Worship said the study was lost.

6 MONTHS' GAOL FOR STEALING

Mr. Hin-shing Lo this morning sentenced a 36-year-old unemployed man, Wong Ling, to six months' gaol for stealing articles from the Acting Chief Justice's car.

Bleeding guilty to the charge, Wong said he had to support a family, and expected to have a job within two or three days. Asked if he had anything else to say, Wong asked, "How about acquitting me?"

Insp. J. D. Carly, yesterday afternoon the Acting Chief Justice's driver was sleeping in his car parked at Queen's Garden, and was awakened by a slight movement. As he looked up he saw defendant taking his jacket from the car.

Chasing after the defendant, he arrested him at the junction of Albany Road and Robinson Road. The jacket, containing $122.46 and a fountain pen, was recovered.

Ban On Import Of UK Bank Notes Relaxed
London, Sept. 30.
A slight relaxation of the ban on the import of English bank notes from abroad was announced last night by the Treasury.

From September 30, ten pound sterling notes dated before September 2, 1944—none of which is now legal tender—may be sent by post to banks in Britain for cash exchange.

About five million sterling is thought to be affected. Under previous regulations, the import of sterling notes for ten sterling travel allowance was prohibited.—Reuter.
